◉ EU Scholarship Information Session

With the number of Taiwanese students pursuing higher education in Europe continuing to grow, the College of International Affairs invited Mr. Chia-Ching Cheng, Executive Director of the Taiwan EU Center, to organize an EU Scholarship Information Session.

The session introduced the latest trends in studying in Europe and application information for the Erasmus Mundus Joint Master Degrees (EMJMD).

In addition to analyzing recent developments in Taiwan–Europe educational exchanges and various resources available for studying in Europe, Executive Director Cheng provided an in-depth explanation of the features of EMJMD programs, scholarship opportunities, and key considerations for applications.

He also shared practical advice on preparing study plans, recommendation letters, and proof of language proficiency. Through detailed data and first-hand experience, the session helped students understand trends in European higher education and prepare for future study-abroad opportunities and international mobility.

II. Work Plan for the Next Academic Year

The work plan for the next academic year will continue to focus on deepening EU studies and strengthening inter-university and interdisciplinary cooperation as its core objectives. The Center will steadily promote a range of academic and exchange activities.Building on the existing foundation, the Center will continue to collaborate with relevant units at National Taiwan University to organize the annual Taiwan–EU Forum. The forum will focus on important issues including European integration, changes in the international political and economic environment, and global governance. Through thematic discussions and interdisciplinary dialogue, the Center aims to enhance the depth of academic discussions and strengthen connections between academic research and policy practice.At the same time, the Center will continue to co-organize graduate student research presentations with National Taiwan University, providing a high-quality platform for young scholars and graduate students to present their research, encouraging the exchange of emerging research findings, and promoting the growth and connectivity of the academic community.

In addition, the European Union Research Center will further strengthen its cooperation with the EU Program of the College of International Affairs. The Center plans to organize a series of thematic lectures, guest lectures, and workshops, inviting scholars from Taiwan and abroad, policy practitioners, and industry experts to share the latest research trends and practical perspectives.

These activities will assist students in gaining a multifaceted understanding of EU-related issues while enhancing their international perspectives and analytical capabilities.In the future, the Center will also explore additional opportunities for inter-university and international cooperation according to emerging needs. These initiatives will include short-term academic exchanges, joint research projects, and student-participatory activities.Through these efforts, the European Union Research Center will continue to play a more influential role in teaching, research, and international engagement, while strengthening National Chengchi University's academic visibility in the field of European studies and its connections with the broader academic community.
